A World for Door Handles

Before taking on the policy affordable housing construction and quality of the government, its managers were set with regard to the growing needs of construction and quality materials on the one hand and lack of product standards for optimal replacement products On the other hand foreign, action and change production lines equipped with spending hundreds of millions may call.

We hope that this changes the intent to produce excellence and to prevent import similar products or products with high price and lack of quality was done with the support you Esteemed colleagues, to achieve the desired result.

In addition to complete information, catalogs and technical specifications of products presented are certainly coming after you study the better choice when buying a lock and doorknob promotes organize. Overall, among the materials used in construction industry handles (Fe - Pb dry - rice) with rice metal quality and the quality is higher. Reasons for this superiority is: A) metal resistance against humidity is very high so why does never call for the production of valves of this alloy is used.

B) The metal resistance against impact and high pressure environment is so dry state fragility of lead metal and not subject to any knob is not broken.
